

Notice To Proceed – August 8th, 2008

80,000 yards of bulk excavation

4 Different foundation methods required

Benches for CSLM

Stone at Ice Ring

9,000 cubic yards of concrete foundation

4,600 linear feet of foundation wall

11,000 yards of CLSM backfill

CLSM backfill

Steel at Ice Ring for Steel Erection

Steel erection start date – December 22, 2008

Milestone Achieved

7,200 tons of steel – 74 sequences

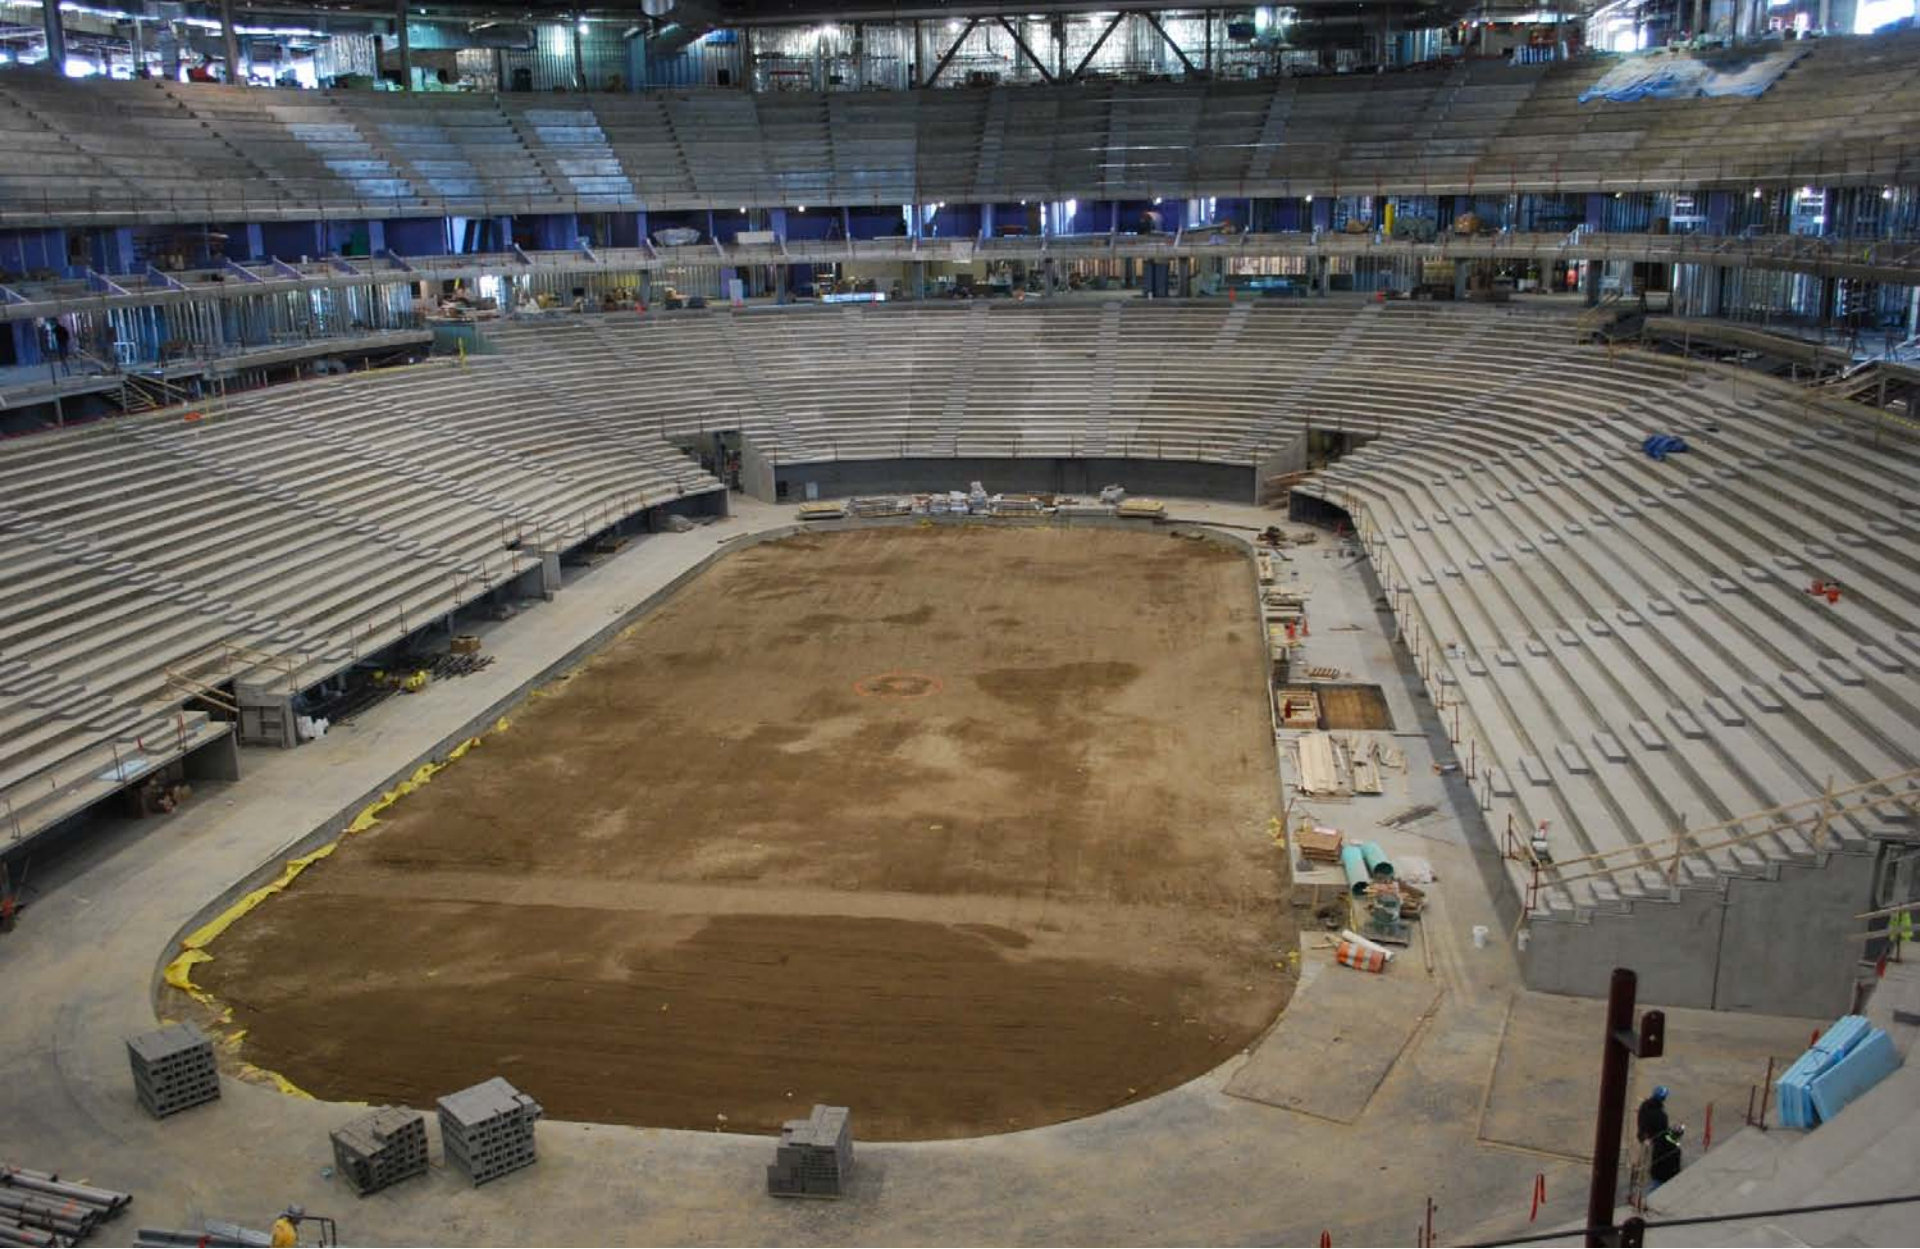

Snow day! Fighting the elements

14,000 cubic yards

Upper down precast erection

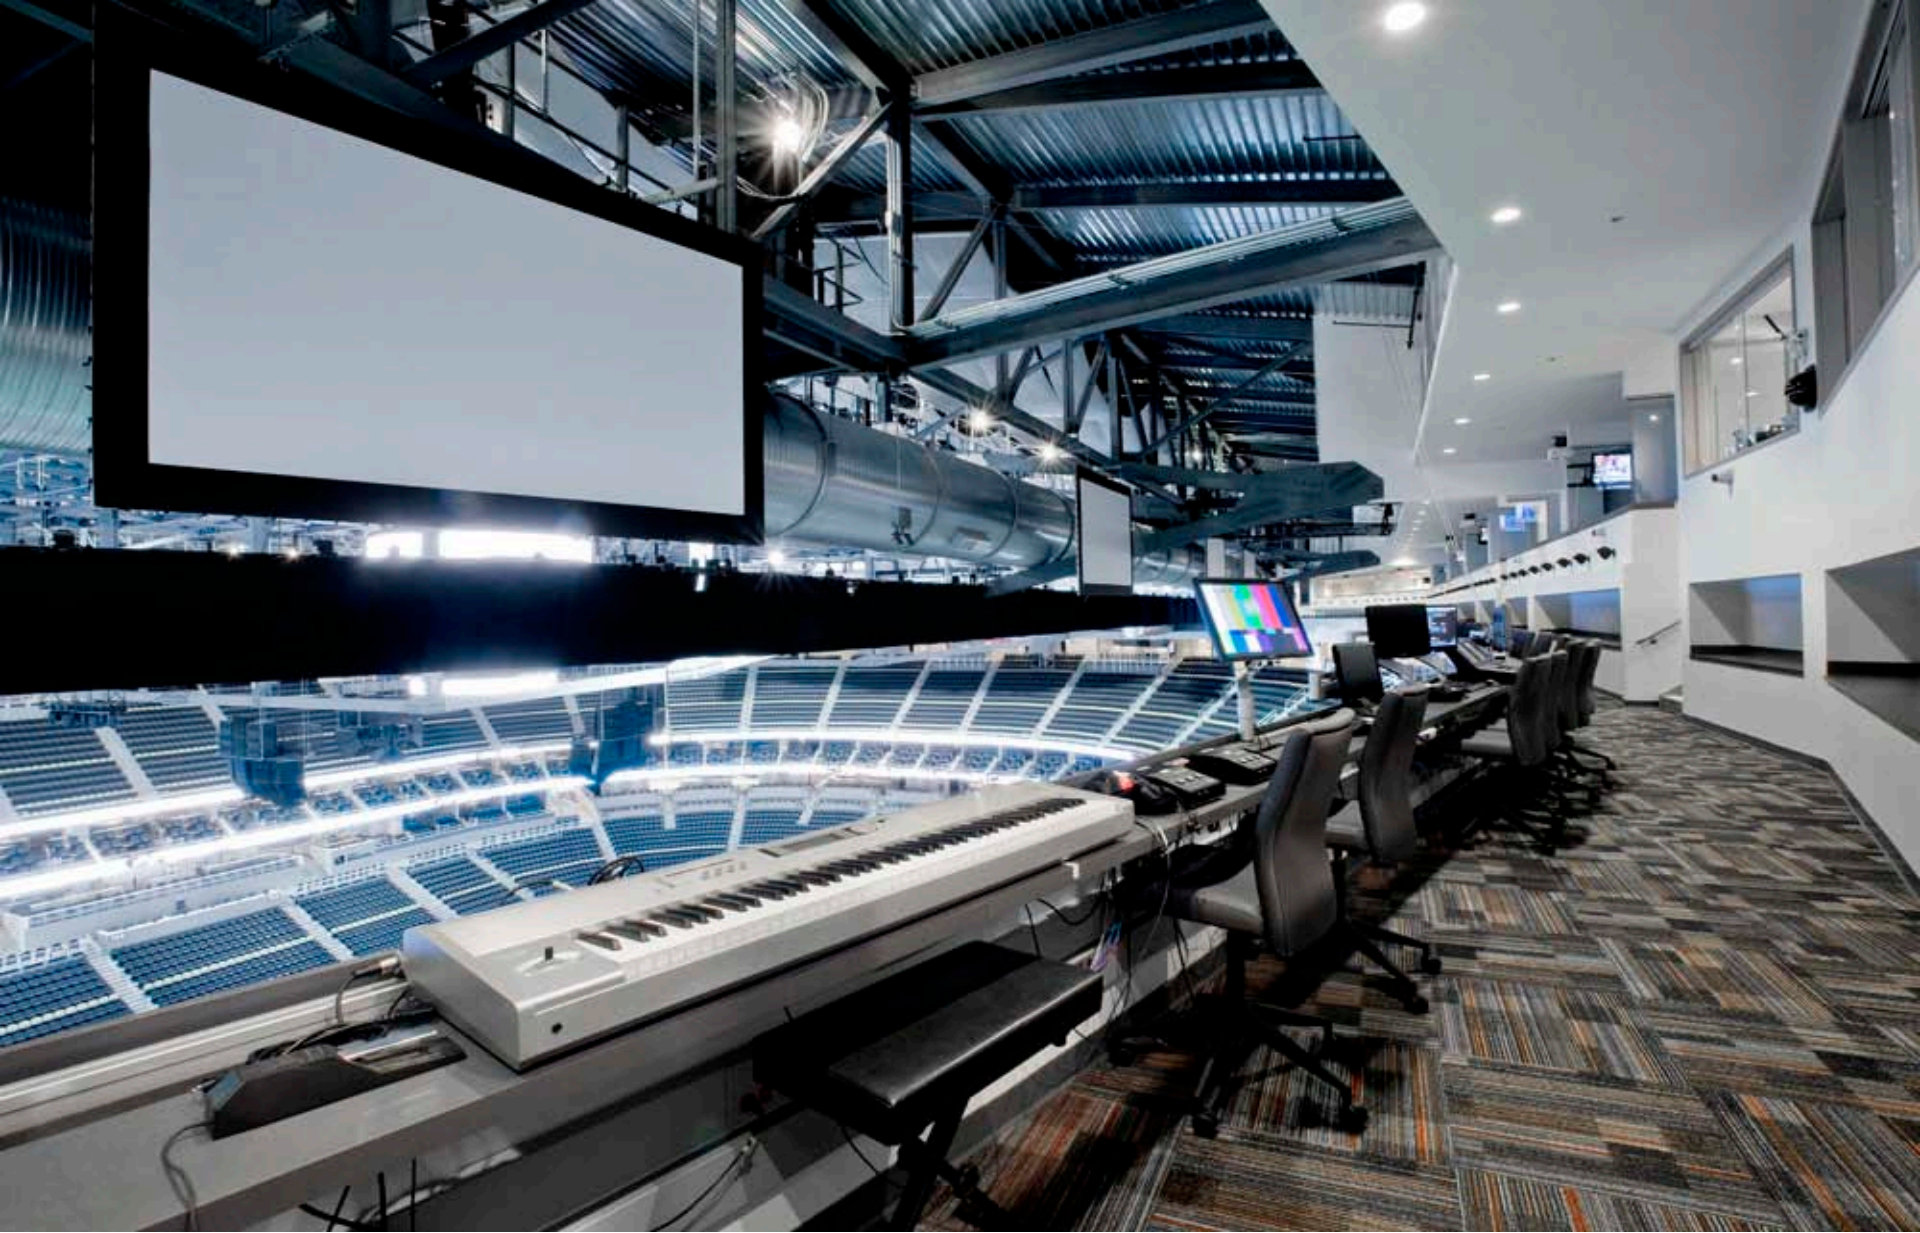

Preparation for ice slab
420 yards of poured monolithic

55,000 square foot curtain wall

Pens locker room – resembles current Civic Arena – (Igloo Shaped)

Writers' Press – capable of seating over 130 reporters

Team store

East Club

Spine Wall

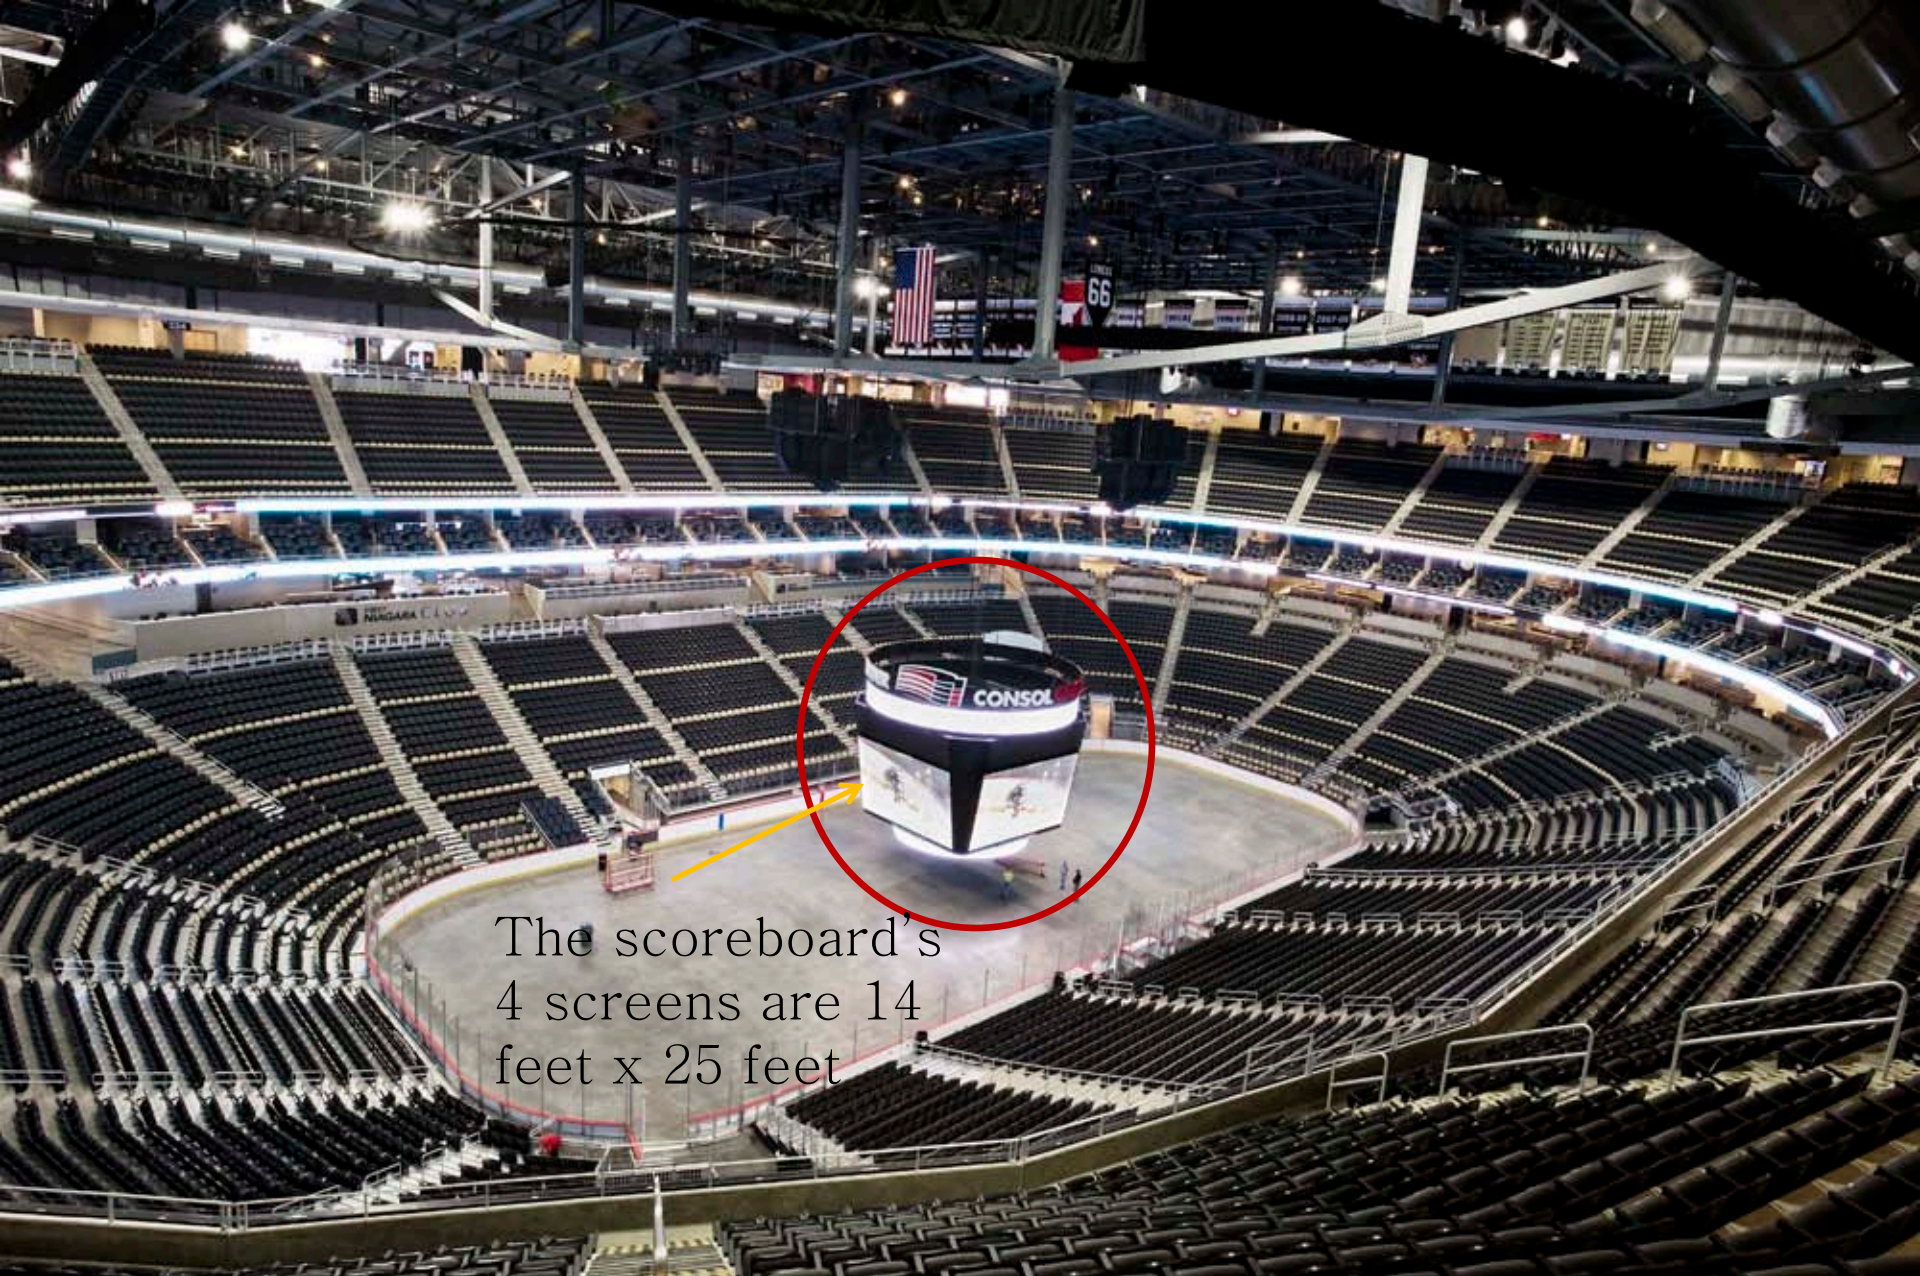

5th Avenue Entrance

5th Avenue Elevation

Lexus Club overlooking Civic Arena

The scoreboard's
4 screens are 14
feet x 25 feet

Final touches on 70,000 pound scoreboard

University of Pittsburgh Locker Room

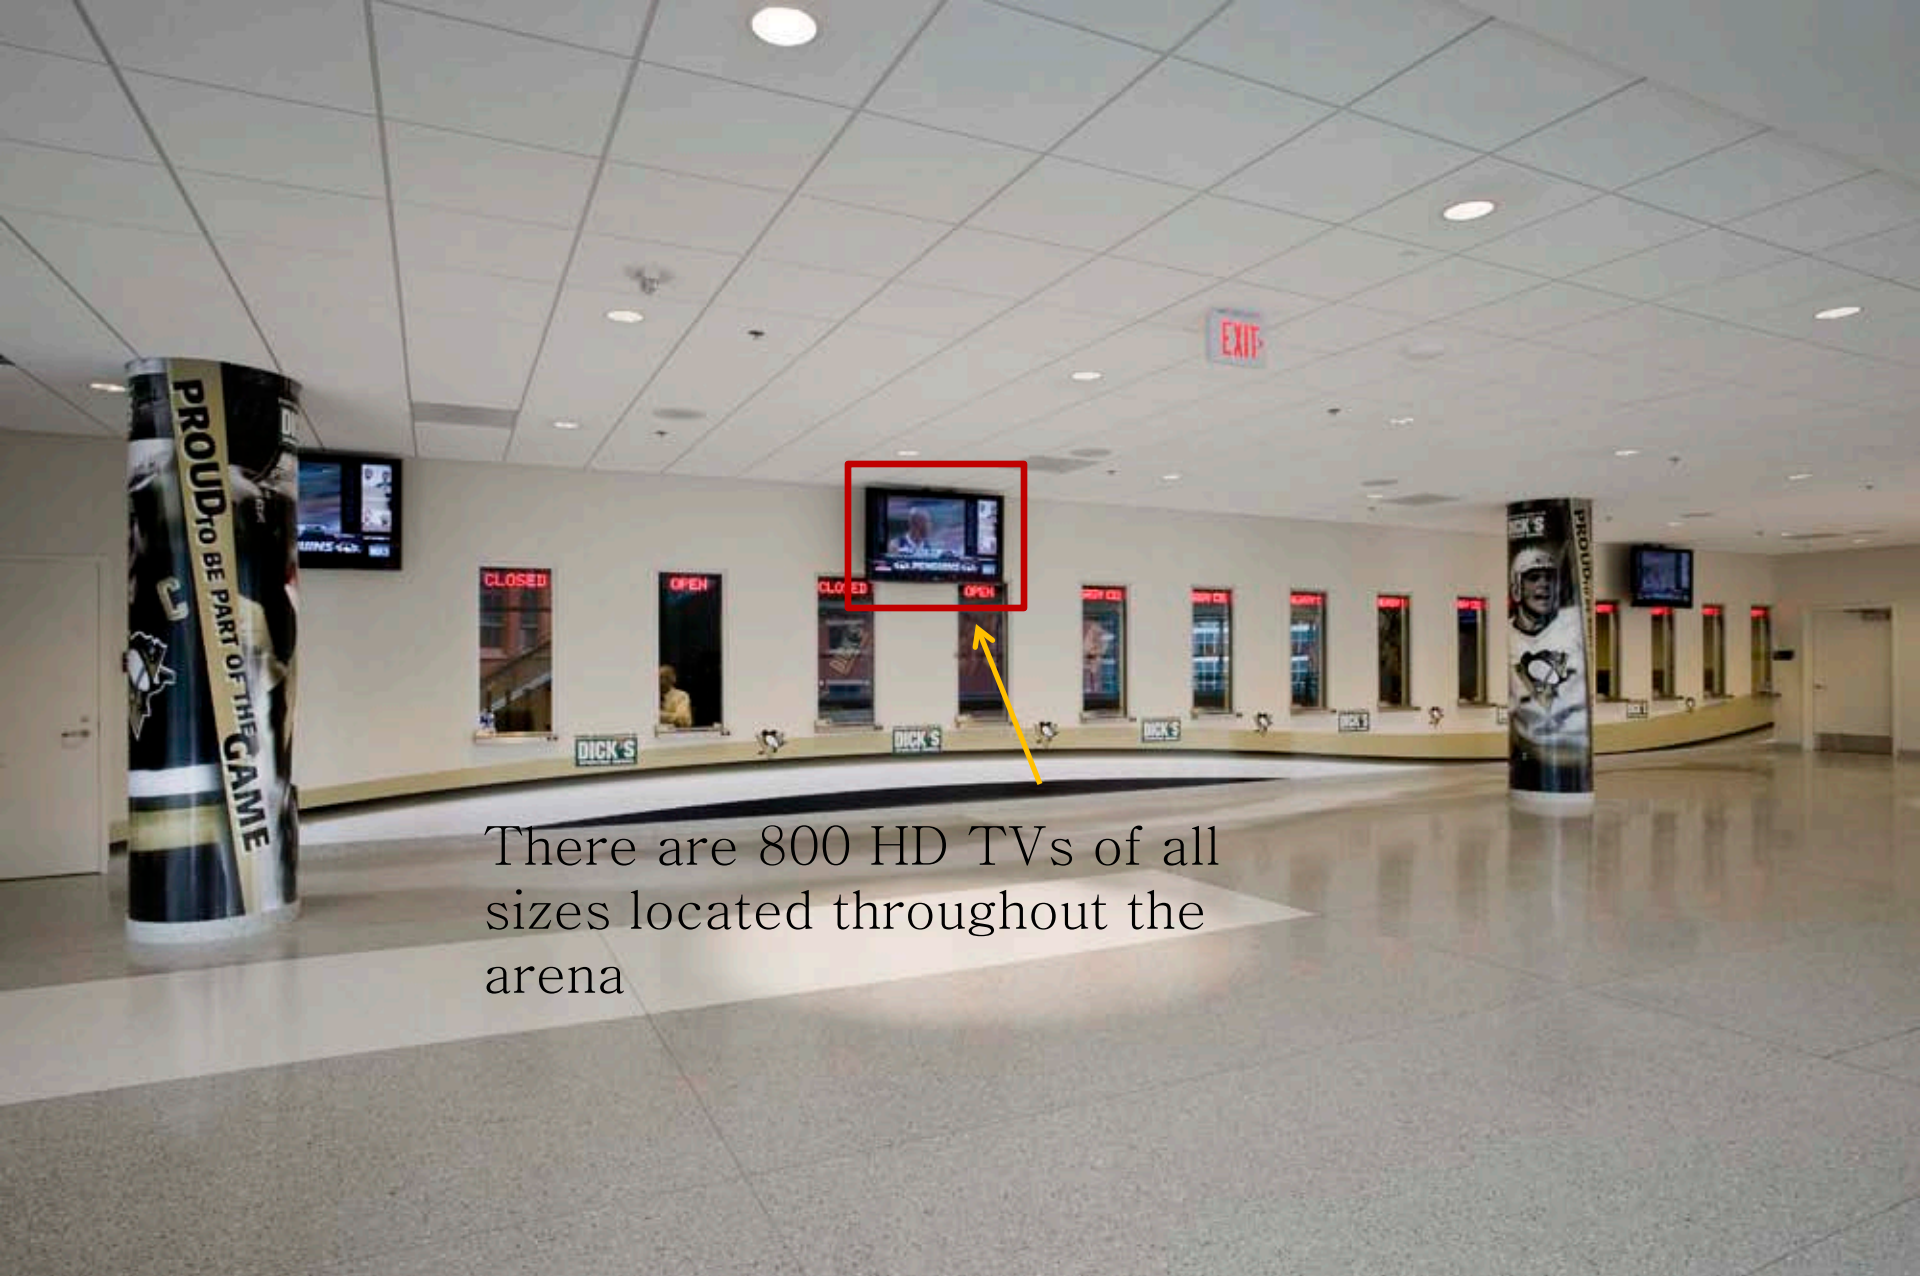

Lexus Club Bar

Typical Suite – 1 of 71

Party Suite – Capable of Seating 200 guests

There are 800 HD TVs of all sizes located throughout the arena

Ticket windows – 53,000 feet of terrace

Wall of Fame featuring team jerseys from local high schools

Trib Total Media Gate

Escalators – there are 12 total in the arena

One area for concessions – there is one concession point for every 158 visitors

The arena seats 18,087 guests for a hockey game

The arena includes conference space for 40 to up to 160 people

236 Loge Box Seats are available in the arena

Photo credit: Pittsburgh Tribune-Review

On June 10th, 2010 the Pittsburgh Penguins Invited 400 local college and high school students into the arena to test the 384 toilets and 168 urinals throughout the building to ensure that the plumbing system could handle 1,800 gallons of water per minute

Here, Walt Czekaj, Director of Field Operations and other construction workers pose with the Stanley Cup on the job site

Arena staff pose with some Pittsburgh Penguins on site

The CONSOL Energy Center is the 1st NHL Arena to Achieve LEED Gold Certification